INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Petrus Communications is an award-winning recruitment marketing and research consultancy, working with companies and universities worldwide on graduate recruitment and employability projects.

“During my first internship with a big international company, I met Petrus CEO Kirsten, who invited me to apply for an internship, and the chance to see another side of working on global projects. I joined Petrus for seven months and from day one, I found myself taking on responsibility for significant projects.

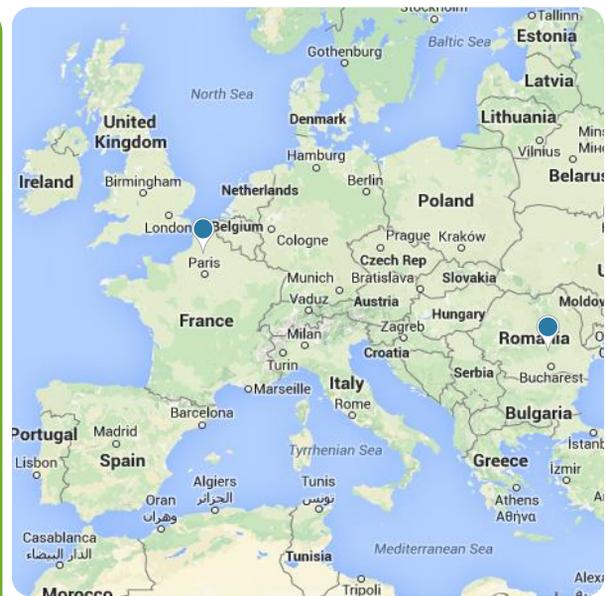

My colleagues at Petrus in France were great and very welcoming. They were always willing to answer questions I had, and helped me settle in locally. I also got on very well with my colleagues based in the UK and in Romania. We talked daily on Skype but I was also fortunate enough to attend a team training session at the start of my internship in Bucharest where we met each other in person. The experience of working within a virtual team, communicating via Skype, email and telephone calls was really interesting. I can imagine many employers will be operating like this in the near future and I think that I have learned a lot about how to work effectively in this way.

Working directly alongside Kirsten was a great experience too. Despite her busy schedule, she always made time to discuss my progress and answer my questions. I learned transversal skills like how to manage my time working across multiple clients and projects, but also developed my communications expertise, for example by learning how to conduct live interviews with a video crew.

I was lucky to travel extensively for work, which I think is unusual for an intern. I thoroughly enjoyed every trip I made, which included conducting market research in London, attending client meetings in Paris and Toulouse, as well as a major event in Hamburg.

I would recommend interning at Petrus because you have the rare opportunity to work with multiple international companies. At the same time, you're welcomed to into the company from day one and the opportunities to develop the skills you would like to are endless!”

Dominic is now employed at Petrus as Senior Account Executive, based in the company's Bucharest office.
